

ECTA Congratulates Senator Gillibrand and Her 12 Colleagues for Advancing Tier 3.

Washington, DC, November 29, 2012 – Tim Regan, the President of the Emissions Control Technology Association, applauds Senator Gillibrand and her colleagues for taking a stand on Tier 3. Regan said, “The emissions control industry congratulates Senator Gillibrand and her colleagues, Senators Blumenthal, Brown, Cardin, Durbin, Lautenberg, Kerry, Lieberman, Menendez, Merkle, Murray, Schumer, and Whitehouse, for strongly urging the Administration to move forward with great haste to propose and adopt Tier 3.” He highlighted the importance of Tier 3 to the industry, stating that, “The industry needs certainty associated with this rule to launch the technology development process needed to manufacture products to meet the new standards for model year 2017. If the rule slips any further, it will delay the implementation of a nationwide standard for a year. This will diminish the job creation and clean air benefits associated with Tier 3. Americans are clamoring for jobs and improved air quality. The time to act is now.”
